I have always been in the company of animals. That is the one thing I am most thankful for. My lovely pets have always been around to provide unconditional affection and love when I needed it the most. My father was instrumental in making me grow fond of animals. He always kept me around animals. I guess he was trying to help me learn how to be tolerant and loving from these amazing creatures. Trust me, some of the biggest life lessons that I have gained have come from these beautiful creatures. My family, too, has always been hands on with the pets in the household. Whether it was bathing, feeding or taking care of these animals, my family relied on pure instincts and ensured that the animals go the best of everything. These animals were the centre of all our activities. There was not a single day that did not begin with a discussion about these pets. What to feed them? How to take care of a cat or dog that is ailing? What is the most nutritious thing to feed them? These were common dinner table conversations while I was growing up. So, needless to say, I have had a lot of practical training with respect to taking care of different breeds of animals. Sometimes, I learnt from my family and sometimes, your pet will just tell you what he or she needs. Today, I am in a very privileged place where I can share this information with pet lovers across the globe. I would have never been able to provide you with so much comprehensive information without the knowledge that I gained from my father, my family and of course my beloved cats. At Last! A descendant of a regular domestic cat and the wild Asian Leopard cat, the Bengal breed of cat is one of the best breeds to keep as a pet. The fact that the breed has some level of wild blood does not in any way mean that it is wild. The modern Bengal cat turns out to have a sweet temperament while still maintaining the wild appearance of the Asian Leopard cat. Breeding programs in place have gone a long way in eliminating the wildness of the Asian Leopard cat, leading to development of a breed of cat similar to any other domestic cat, except for its unique characteristics. The large, muscular and attractive Bengal breed of cat is fast becoming very popular with cat lovers across the world. Its growing popularity definitely stems from the fact that it has a sweet temperament and is a very active breed. Apart from its affection and love for human company, this breed also has a very strong personality. Its love for water, which is indeed unique, continues to amaze those who own the cat for the first time. This is one breed of cat that suits almost everyone who loves cats because it bonds very well with all family members including children. The only category of people who may find this breed inappropriate are the elderly simply because of the cat's extreme level of activity. This book will teach you how to make your Bengal cat a happy cat. other common presentations such as alopecia, polydipsia and seizures. The final systems-based section gives more detailed information on the management of the disorders commonly seen in general practice. The Manual gives enough information for any vet to deal very competently with commonly seen feline problems, also providing guidance on where to go for further information if required. Where appropriate, guidelines are also given for when referral should be considered, and for situations where financial limitations may exist. A unique feature of this Manual are the many 'Quick Reference Guides' (QRGs) provided throughout, which present practical techniques and treatments in easy-to-follow step-by-step guides, with clear colour photographs illustrating each step whenever possible.
